

A Bigger 2014 - December 2013 (Bigger Law Firm Magazine Book 26)

FEATURE A Bigger 2014 - This comprehensive guide to the newest ideas and biggest changes in legal marketing helps firms think forward to achieve their New Years (marketing) Resolutions. With calculated, thoughtful design risks, a new approach to search engine optimization, content amplification and savvy directory entries for lists large and small, your firm can land more impressions and attract more clients. This year, you may even be able to reach potential clients before they even know they're looking for you.

SECURITY - Good Passwords If a password is easy to remember, it's probably weak. But if you do create truly strong, random passwords for all the secure files you need, how can your firm track them securely? Ryan Conleys Primer On Data Security lends insight into the software solutions and encryption methods that keep your clients information safe online, on servers and in the office.

IMPRESS IN TRIALS Bethany Auck gives readers Five Tips for Successful, Budget-Friendly Trial Demonstratives. With her expertise as Founder and Creative Director of the informational design firm SlideRabbit, Auck relates courtroom design strategies that any firm can achieve. Dismiss your fears of appearing too slick and embrace the power of visual, flexible trial demonstratives to capture and keep your jury's focus.

DOMA AND YOUR LAW FIRM Marital status affects more than a thousand separate federal statutes. In this month's Future of Law commentary, Brendan Conley breaks down the recent developments in same-sex marriage law after the end of DOMA Section 3. From taxes to divorce repercussions, Conley analyzes the new landscape for LGBT couples and for their legal needs.

HELICOPTER BRANDING Kristen Friend teaches readers How to: Avoid Helicopter Branding to determine when patience and distance are the only new strategies your marketing needs. Give your choices time to produce meaningful statistics and focus on your own work (not your toughest competitors), and you'll reap far greater rewards. WEARABLE TECHNOLOGY Justin Torres predicts that Wearable Tech is Coming. He reveals the pros and cons of popular gadgets that can improve your life and career from your wrist (and even eyes). BLAH BLAH BLOG According to guest contributor Diane Dean-Epps, there's no excuse for a blah-blah blog. In Get Your (Blogger) Gears Going, Dean-Epps shows readers how to conquer blogging fears and maximize the potential of this valuable marketing and outreach tool. LAW REVIEWS Yelp isn't just for espresso anymore. Cara M. Tucker advises readers to let your past work speak for itself on both law-specific sites (like Avvo.com) with mainstream giants (like Yelp). Law Reviews of a Different Kind tackles the strategies and ethics you need to encourage online feedback from your happiest clients.

THE NEW GOOGLE BAR Barbara Atkinson encourages legal professionals to Get On the Big Ride with Google Carousel. This image-heavy, locally tailored bar is replacing listings in some search results, so learn about the reviews, photos and unique content your firm needs in order to ride. DOCUMENT OVERLOAD Does your firm suffer from Document Overload? With the right DMS, you can protect your work against catastrophe, boost office collaboration and even provide yourself with relevant documents automatically. Kerrie Spenser balances the details, perks and drawbacks of the two document management systems that offer lawyers the most flexibility today. LEGAL MALPRACTICE Christopher Kazor prepares readers for the unexpected costs associated with a professional liability suit in Choosing and Mastering Professional Liability Insurance. Kazor shops for Legal Professional coverage with readers choosing a carrier licensed in-state and an appropriate defense limit, while still tailoring coverage to suit a firm's area of expertise.
