

Tempus Fugit

What would our founding fathers do if they suddenly found themselves in the present-day United States? Bask in their anonymity? Announce themselves to the world? Emigrate? Revolt? Run for office? Journey with our founders as they discover airplanes, Constitutional amendments, World Wars and the Kennedy Assassination. Watch CNN and Jerry Springer with George Washington, meet emancipated African Americans with Thomas Jefferson, surf the web with Benjamin Franklin. Relive defining moments in our history through our forefathers' perspectives, and enter their minds as they adapt the principles of their time to ours. Become intimate with Jefferson's genius and hypocrisy, Franklin's wit and wisdom, Washington's honesty and bravery. Our founders wrote extensively on everything from corporations to direct election of Senators to involvement in European wars. Historians have also studied them at great length. Lawrence Lee Rowe Jr. has synthesized this information to give a vivid and accurate sense of their personalities, morals and political beliefs. The result is a fast-paced, profound, often hilarious story that brings Washington, Franklin and Jefferson back to life.
