

SWEDENBORG AND THE DOCTRINES OF THE NEW CHURCH

The most important of the doctrines thus treated is The Doctrine of Enlightenment, which fills upwards of 200 pages, and constitutes fairly a treatise by itself. It gives a history of the gradual unfolding of the degrees in the human mind, under the directing influence of the Lords immediate and mediate influx. This doctrine holds the same relation to a systematic Doctrine of Degrees which, on the natural plane, Physiology holds to Anatomy; for it exhibits the degrees in the human mind, set in motion, as it were, during the process of regeneration. On account of the increase in the size of the chapter on Enlightenment, the author found it impossible to include in the present volume the Doctrine of Worship, and the Doctrine of Marriage, which are reserved for a future volume, together with the Doctrine of Degrees, in its application to the organization of the Spiritual World and the Human Mind in general. The present work is specially intended for New Church ministers and candidates for the New Church ministry; although it is thought that it may be profitably studied also by all intelligent readers of the Writings of Swedenborg.
