

The Semantics of Word Formation and Lexicalization

In the study of word formation, the focus has often been on generating the form. In this book, the semantic aspect of the formation of new words is central. It is viewed from the perspectives of word formation rules and of lexicalization. An extensive introduction gives a historical overview of the study of the semantics of word formation and lexicalization, explaining how the different theoretical frameworks used in the contributions relate to each other. Each chapter then concentrates on a specific question about a theoretical concept or a word formation process in a particular language and adopts a theoretical framework that is appropriate to the study of this question. From general theoretical concepts of productivity and lexicalization, the focus moves to terminology, compounding, and derivation.

Theoretical frameworks discussed include Jackendoffs Conceptual Structure, Langackers Cognitive Grammar, Liebers lexical semantic approach to word formation, Pustejovskys Generative Lexicon, Beards Lexeme-Morpheme-Base Morphology, The onomasiological approach to terminology and word formation.
