

The Tragedy of JULIUS CAESAR: (Annotated)

ROME 45-42 B.C. why Brutus rose against Caesar, this is my answer: not that I loved Caesar less, but that I loved Rome more. Had you rather Caesar were living and die all slaves, than that Caesar were dead to live all free men? Julius Caesar, Brutus, Act 3.2. The plays provenance in Roman History is important; Shakespeare dramatized the end of the Roman Republic. The conspiracy against Caesar (44 B.C.) represented the last stand for the Republican cause. For although Caesar refused the crown offered him by Antony three times, the Republican idealists traditional fear of kings made even the possibility of a restoration intolerable to Brutus, Cassius and the other conspirators. This was a real danger after the Pompeian Wars, as Rome was prepared to give Caesar considerable latitude on the grounds that the aristocratic oligarchy would not be sufficient to prevent further strife. The following is from Plutarchs Life of Caesar: The Romans, inclining to Caesars prosperity, and taking a bit in the mouth, supposing that, to be ruled by one man alone, it would be a good means for them to take breath a little, after so many troubles and miseries as they had abidden in the civil wars: they chose him perpetual dictator. This was a plain tyranny: for to this absolute power of dictator, they added this; never to be afraid to be deposed. To committed Republicans, Caesars arrogation of power justified tyrannicide. It was a matter of honor to put the well being of Rome before sole trust in Caesar. However, the arguments the conspirators used to murder Caesar and justify to the plebeians afterwards proved to be a mandate for their own entitlement. Caesars death led to further civil war and, eventually, to the sole rule of the Emperors.
